

The Two Questions of Self Correction / A Painting Workshop with Bill Gallen

The focus of this class will be to investigate color temperature and value. A working methodology will be developed that will encompass formatted design, thumb nail sketches and the investigation of the capacity of a temperature sensitive palette. I'm happy to work with folks just starting out as well as experienced painters. A day of plein air painting will be scheduled over the course of the class.